

YOUR GUIDE TO

Widening Participation

By focusing on widening participation, institutions strive to create a more diverse and representative student body. How can they ensure an inclusive learning environment that enables all individuals to reach their full potential?

The Issue

One of the most pressing issues in widening participation is socioeconomic inequality. Students from low-income backgrounds often face financial barriers, making it difficult to afford tuition fees, textbooks, and living expenses. The lack of financial support can discourage talented individuals from pursuing higher education, perpetuating a cycle of disadvantage.

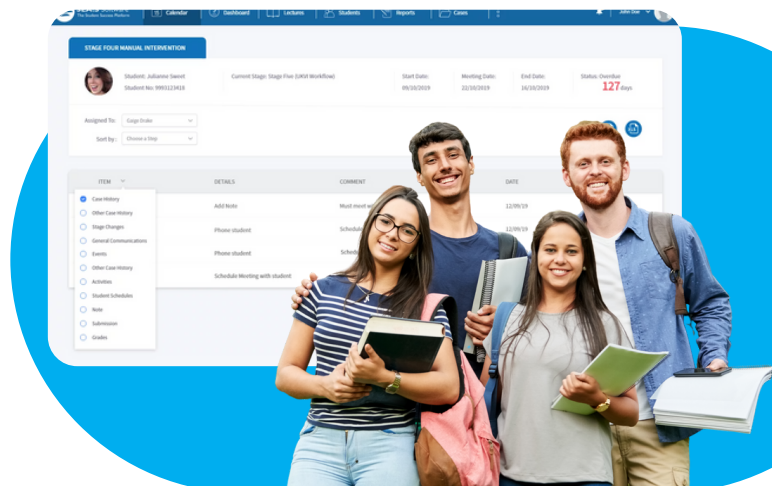

The Challenges

- Some students face difficulties in staying and succeeding due to academic, financial, or cultural factors.
- Unequal access to quality primary and secondary education can lead to varying levels of preparedness among students. This disparity can limit their potential to pursue higher education successfully.
- Lack of representation and support systems within universities can create feelings of alienation.

How can SEAtS help?

SEAtS Software stands as a valuable solution for institutions striving to achieve meaningful widening participation by using data as a guiding force. SEAtS helps design targeted student success strategies to ensure that no student is left behind by:

- Using data-driven interventions to prompt timely, appropriate support and outreach to help students overcome challenges.
- Identifying attrition trends and design student success strategies
- Using a clear visual display of student metrics. The objective is to give your widening participation team at-a-glance visibility into retention performance by school, course, or module.
